COLOUR COLLECTION GUIDE

Welcome

“We’d like to introduce the 2021 edition of ColourFutures™, which tells the story of how we transform key global trends into inspiring paint colour palettes for the home.

It’s been a challenging year, and we’ve all faced experiences that feel out of kilter with the modern world. But we’ve also rediscovered something much more positive: the solidarity of communities; the generosity of strangers; and the fact that, together, we can do extraordinary things. Now’s the time to find the courage to pick ourselves up and move forward. Our homes continue to provide a sanctuary; and it’s the perfect place for us to restore, renew and recalibrate; a space where we can be brave enough to take the first steps towards a bright future.

This year, our Colour of the Year is a shade that’s all about balance, stability and potential.

The following pages are full of ideas and inspiration to help you use the colour, combine it with other shades and try out easy techniques to transform your surroundings.

Our website also offers lots of useful information and practical help for making the most of Sadolin Colour of the Year 2021.”

FOREWORD BY

HELEEN VAN GENT

CREATIVE DIRECTOR, GLOBAL AESTHETIC CENTER, AKZONOBEL

INTRODUCING THE GLOBAL AESTHETIC CENTER

For more than 25 years, the Global Aesthetic Center in Amsterdam has been a hotbed of trend analysis, colour design and art direction. Led by Heleen van Gent, the creative team supports 80 markets around the world, working to ensure that every market can help consumers and customers choose colours with complete confidence.

To be sure that our new colour palettes are right for the future, we undertake rigorous research and trend-monitoring; gathering social, cultural and design insights from a selection of acclaimed international design experts. Our colour team then uses this information to help identify the Colour of the Year and to create four complementary and inspiring palettes around it.

ColourFutures™ is central to the Global Aesthetic Center's work. As well as allowing us to tell the story behind this year's colours and to keep our colour expertise at the cutting edge, it also enables us to create assets to help people at every stage of their decorating journey. Our videos, articles and inspirational images are designed to give people the confidence to transform their surroundings using the Colour of the Year and its complementary shades.

THE HISTORY OF COLOURFUTURES™

COLOUR ANALYSIS

The evolution of colour trends leading up to 2021

Every Colour of the Year marks a moment in time and, viewed collectively, they can help tell the story of our age. The evolution of our ColourFutures™ palettes charts the changes in our consumers' appetite for different colours, and also reflects what's going on in the wider world. You'll notice that neutrals are becoming increasingly important, with a continuing interest in shades on the grey scale. Nearly two decades on from the very first ColourFutures™, we've honed our colours down from 100 to 37, creating a curated selection that takes the complexity out of colour choice and makes it far easier for our consumers to select the shades that are right for them.

COMPLETE COLOUR PALETTES

We started working with over 100 colours in 2004 to show the breadth of our colour expertise

2004-2007 COOLER BLUES

Calming blues and purples played a dominant role in the colour palettes of this period

2004-2021 NEUTRALS GROW

We've seen an increasing interest in neutrals, with earthy tones making more of an appearance

2007-2013 OPTIMISTIC YELLOWS

Sunny shades became more prevalent, with people looking for positivity in their interiors

2013-2021 MUTED TONES

The last few years have seen a growing desire for more neutral shades, with an increase in the popularity of greyish tones

Research shows that it is easier to choose from a smaller number of colours - less is more

HOW IT HAPPENS

OUR GLOBAL TREND FORECAST

At AkzoNobel, we know that people want to be confident in their colour choices. They're looking for colour expertise and guidance so they can choose shades that are on trend and that won't date. To meet those demands and to drive paint expertise forward, global colour research is always at the top of our agenda. To this end, each year, we invite a selection of internationally-acclaimed, independent design experts to join our colour team for a rigorous and wide-ranging trend forecast. By understanding the global societal, economic and design factors that will influence our lives in the coming years, we can then start to predict key consumer trends.

This year, we assembled at the Museum de Lakenhal in Leiden where our experts shared their observations and insights on cutting-edge cultural, design and lifestyle trends and helped us identify the mood of the moment. Since that first meeting, we have kept in regular touch with our experts to ensure that our messages continue to be valid and relevant.

“OUR RIGOROUS INSIGHT-GATHERING HELPS US PREDICT WITH CONFIDENCE WHAT’S GOING TO BE INFLUENCING THE WAY WE LIVE IN THE COMING YEAR”

TREND ANALYSIS

THE TEAM

MEET THE EXPERTS

A group of acclaimed international design experts join our colour team for a three-day trend-forecasting session, during which we build a picture of the key trends that will be shaping consumers' lives. With specialists from the worlds of architecture, cultural analysis, design innovation and technology, the expertise on offer is broad. Each expert begins by sharing their observations and insights; we then open the discussion so we can consider collaboratively how these ideas might come together in the coming year, and how they will influence our way of living.

TREND #1: SELF-BELIEF

BE LOUD AND PROUD

Stepping up and speaking from the heart takes courage, but it also galvanises people and inspires loyalty. Whose words have resonated most during recent times? Those who have been brave enough to act with passion, authority and empathy. Standing up for what we believe in and thinking of others gives us the power to make a positive difference.

From New Zealand's Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern to those of Denmark and Norway – Mette Frederiksen and Erna Solberg, female leaders across the globe have been helping us understand just how much can be achieved with a strong sense of self, a passion for doing the right thing and an emphasis on empathy. They've carried their nations through difficult times by leading with generosity, not ego; and it's an approach that has won the world over. Building self-belief isn't about being narcissistic or inward-looking. While investing in our own wellbeing can help to boost our resilience, it can also give us the confidence and the courage to reach out to others and contribute to the greater good. And home should be somewhere that nurtures and nourishes our sense of self; somewhere we can experiment with new ideas and reinvent old ones; a space where we can think differently, act generously and express ourselves.

TREND #2: SOCIAL SOLIDARITY

TOGETHER WE'RE STRONGER

Collaboration works. Whether we're seeking innovative ideas or the solution to a global problem, it makes sense to pool our knowledge and combine forces. Working with others brings new perspectives and expands our horizons; and with diversity comes strength. We're one world, one people; when we trust each other and work together, we can do extraordinary things.

"In nature we never see anything isolated, but everything in connection with something else..." German writer Goethe's words have rung particularly true during the recent crisis when it's never been more apparent that we're one global family. People across the world have been united by feelings, needs and ways of behaving as never before, and this has served to underline our commonality, as well as generating a reassuring sense of global solidarity. As human beings, we crave connection and, as we haven't been able to come together in the physical world, we've seen a dramatic increase in digital community-building. People of all ages have been connecting across continents and time zones to support each other, to share their skills and to work together. It's an experience that has helped us understand the potency and positivity of community effort and teamwork, and one that will leave a lasting legacy. As a consequence, people will be seeking spaces that encourage communication, collaboration and unity.

TREND #3: REVALUING THE PAST

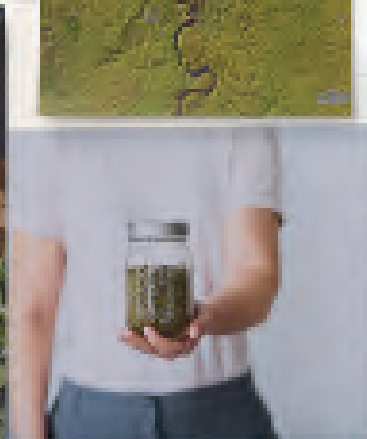

LOOK BACK TO MOVE FORWARD

Consumerist society might dismiss the old in favour of the new, but it's time to reassess our history. The skills and values of the past have timeless resonance and, by building on them, we can create a solid and sustainable future. We need to be bold enough to reject fashionable fads, to live not just for today but for all time.

There's so much we can learn from the past, whether it's the craftsmanship of traditional skills, the knowledge of ancient cultures or the cumulative discoveries of pioneering scientists around the world. History is relevant and valuable; a landscape we should cherish and build on to take us forward. There's something reassuring about following the patterns of the past, respecting well-trodden paths or giving them a fresh and contemporary perspective. Handled by generations and carried through time, old objects and artefacts bring weight and meaning to a space. As life becomes increasingly fast-paced and all about the 'now', we are seeking environments that root us and give us context. We need layered spaces that enable us to embrace our heritage, evolve and tell our own personal stories: where we come from, who we are; what we love.

TREND #4: ECO-CONSCIENCE

TREAD LIGHTLY FOR A BRIGHT FUTURE

The earth is vulnerable and resilient. For centuries, we've been tapping its resources; now it's time to give something back. Understanding the urgency of reducing our impact is a positive first step, but we also need to find ways of doing things differently and more sustainably.

The aim? A better world for our children.

An intense period of social and economic change can make us reassess what really matters in our lives. Many of us, it seems, are beginning to revalue simple pleasures and prioritising the important things – home, family and friends. It can also lead us to reconsider our relationship with the wider world, and to look at ways we can improve it – both individually and collectively. Respecting the earth has never felt more important, whether that means consuming less and reusing more, repairing and caring for what we have or seeing the wealth in waste. Making small changes to the way we live is a step we can all take towards creating a better world for everyone, and a positive legacy for the next generation. And home has a big part to play. People around the globe are seeking spaces where they can bring the outside in, feel in touch with nature, live responsibly and fall back in love with the simple things.

THE 2021 MOOD

BEING

This year, it's all about...

BRAVE

From having the strength to stand up for what we believe in to finding the confidence to connect with others to being bold enough to embrace the past and the future, all aspects of life need a little courage. While the word has come to be associated with the doing of heroic deeds, its original meaning was less about grand gestures and more about quiet resolve; about being open and honest, and speaking from the heart. Today, it's this kind of courage we need.

With things changing all around us, we need to be strong enough to adapt and to take a leap of faith. All great things start small. Just one step can set us on the path to a new brave world.

“It’s about being open and honest,
and speaking from the heart.
Today, it’s this kind of courage we need.”

THE PROCESS

TRANSFORMING TRENDS INTO COLOURS

The insights gathered from the trend forecast, together with learnings from our markets, help us understand where consumers will be heading in the near future. Our in-house colour design team can then devise paint colours that will match their needs.

We establish a central theme for the year ahead and then work to identify a Colour of the Year that will be timely, relevant and on trend; a colour that encapsulates the theme and reflects the mood of the moment.

Our colour experts then develop a collection of inspiring palettes around this shade, offering four different ways of using the Colour of the Year, so consumers can find colours that are right for them. The team also creates an extensive collection of assets, for print and online use. This is designed to help people at every stage of their decorating journey – whether they're after ideas, practical help or colour confidence – and makes any paint project feel achievable and fun.

A close-up photograph of a hand holding a mound of dark, rich soil. The background is dark with soft, out-of-focus light spots (bokeh) in shades of yellow and white, creating a dreamy, atmospheric effect. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the texture of the soil and the skin of the hand.

OUR INSPIRATION FOR COLOUR OF THE YEAR 2021

THE COURAGE TO

When times are changing and the world seems unstable, we want to feel the ground beneath our feet. We need to take comfort in the stability of the simple things around us – the resilience of nature; the solidity of the earth; the sanctuary of our homes. This year, we've chosen a natural, neutral Colour of the Year that can give us a strong foundation and help us embrace change.

EMBRACE CHANGE

HOW IT TRANSLATES IN OUR HOME

Natural tones simply work in a home, creating a warm, neutral canvas that allows other colours to shine. They're the staples of any living space, providing a solid foundation and, because they work so well together, they also give us scope to be creative with complementary colours and graphic shapes.

Brave Ground is a bolstering, balancing shade that connects us back to nature and the simple things. A warm, natural neutral, it allows other colours to shine and provides a firm foundation for living. An empowering, earthy colour, evoking stability, growth and potential, it helps create an environment that gives us the courage to embrace change.

SELF-BELIEF

Self-belief makes us strong. By standing up for what we believe in, we can be a positive force for the wider world.

SOCIAL SOLIDARITY

We're one world, one people. By continuing to unite and work together, we can make a real difference.

COLOURS OF NATURE

REVEALING THE COLOURFUTURES™ 2021 COLOUR COLLECTION

Brave Ground is a versatile shade that flexes in tone depending on the time of day, where it's used and what colours it's paired with. It's a shade that lets others shine, and one that can form the basis of countless inspiring interior schemes, allowing people to create an environment that's just right for them. Around it, we've created four easy-to-use palettes that reflect the broader trends. Centred around Brave Ground, these are made up of different colour families – reds and pinks; browns; yellows; natural blues and greens – and each can bring a fresh perspective to any living space. Over the next few pages, we'll illustrate the creative scope of these colour palettes and how they can inspire consumers to start a transformation at home.

EXPRESSIVE

CREATING SPACE FOR...

SELF-BELIEF — AUTHENTICITY — POSITIVITY — GENEROSITY

Expressive colours are all about empowering people to be themselves. Positive, energising and surprising, these tones can boost creativity and free-thinking, allowing consumers to define a space where they can really express their personality and bolster their sense of self. Varying shades of pinks and reds, these colours work brilliantly together, and give scope for graphic designs, such as the striped wall shown here. The warm foundation tone of Brave Ground holds these pops of colour together to give a unified and balanced feel to any room.

USING EARTH COLOURS IN COMBINATION IS AN EASY WAY TO GET CREATIVE, BOTH INSIDE AND OUT. DIFFERENT TONES CAN DEFINE SPECIFIC AREAS IN A ROOM, SUCH AS THIS INGENUOUS STUDY SPACE, LEFT; WHILE ANY OF THE COLOURS IN THE PALETTE WORK BRILLIANTLY AGAINST GREENERY ON EXTERIOR WALLS, ABOVE.

#4: EARTH COLOURS

THE TRANSFORMATIVE POWER OF PAINT

HOW WE USE THE COLOUR OF THE YEAR AND ITS ACCOMPANYING PALETTES TO INSPIRE CONSUMERS AROUND THE WORLD TO START A TRANSFORMATION
IN THEIR HOMES

OUR DEDICATED CONSUMER TOOLS – DO TRY THIS AT HOME!

Bringing the Colour of the Year palettes to life in real homes is simple with our unique colour system

Start with the Visualizer app...

Our easy-to-use, free app lets you pick a colour from anywhere and – with augmented reality technology – see the colours live in your living space. Easy, fast and a lot of fun.

get inspiration from our website...

You'll find everything you need to get started, from step-by-step how-to videos to easy and impactful colour combinations using Colour of the Year.

then fine-tune with the wet tester

Once wall colours have been chosen, you can confirm that they work with a room's light by using our wet testers.

ONE ROOM, FOUR WAYS

ONE LIVING ROOM, FOUR PALETTES

We want to show consumers how our four easy-to-use paint colour palettes can help them achieve a diverse range of beautiful looks in their own homes. So we've created a library of images (all freely available for media use via the AkzoNobel Brand Center). This extensive collection of inspiring photography covers all the key rooms and most popular online search terms for interiors. The wide selection of image options, including 'before' shots, gives you the flexibility to build features that match the needs of your consumers.

The living room is often the hub of the home. It's where we relax with family and gather with friends. It's a space that needs to feel warm and welcoming year-round, somewhere that consumers can make their own with the confidence that they're choosing colours that will work and that won't date. We've put together a selection of images to meet your feature needs, with simple 'before and after' shots or with images that show how each palette can transform the same space in different inspiring ways.

ONE BEDROOM, FOUR PALETTES

The bedroom should be somewhere we can repair, restore and recalibrate – a private retreat from the busy world outside. It's a space that should be comfortable and relaxing but also give consumers the scope to be creative. Our images cover a range of inspirational ideas for a bedroom, including examples of impactful colour combinations from each palette, plus a range of simple paint effects. It's all about boosting our consumers' confidence that they can make a room their own.

ONE KITCHEN, FOUR PALETTES

The modern kitchen is a flexible space where we cook, eat and chat with family and friends. It's often the place where we spend most of our time and it can be part of a bigger, open-plan space. Consumers need a kitchen area that feels right – whatever it's being used for, and also somewhere that's functional, upbeat and on-trend. Our images include an inspiring range of solutions from brilliant pink panelled cabinets to a contemporary two-tone effect. Each will give people easy-to-achieve ideas to help them create a look that's right for them.

ONE STUDY, FOUR PALETTES

A dedicated room, a quiet corner or just the end of a shelf, the modern study comes in all shapes and sizes. As more people work from home, it's becoming an increasingly important space and somewhere consumers want to give their attention to. Our images include a wide range of home-office solutions, with innovative ideas from each palette. Use them to inspire consumers by focusing on broad themes, such as using colour for zoning, or for more detailed features, such as adding paint effects to stimulate fresh thinking.

THANK YOU FROM AKZONOBEL AND THE GLOBAL AESTHETIC CENTER

We hope that this book provides a rich resource to inspire you. Its creation would not have been possible without the support of so many people... The design experts from around the world whose insight and knowledge helped us develop the 2021 Colour of the Year. The editorial team who worked tirelessly to write the story, plan the shoots and design these pages. The photographers, decorators and stylists whose creativity helped bring the palettes to life through remarkable photography. And the proud homeowners who threw open their doors and allowed us to shoot in their living spaces. Thank you to everyone involved – and, of course, to you our readers – we hope you enjoy talking to your audiences about, and using, the 2021 Colour of the Year, Brave Ground™.
